Urgent action needed to prevent further loss of Rohingya

The urgent need for the immediate release of a prisoner of conscience from Myanmar's notorious Insein prison was underscored by Amnesty International on 5 August, in the wake of a new wave of arrests of Rohingya men in northern Rakhine state. Myo Aung Soe, a long-time political prisoner, was arrested in early June in his home village of Maungdaw. He was apparently targeted by an army intelligence unit as a leader of the Arakan Rohingya Salvation Army (ARSA), an armed group that attacked military outposts in Rakhine state on 25 August 2017. Myo Aung Soe's arrest is the latest in a string of arrests of people who have been active members of ARSA and have reportedly been held in Insein prison, a notorious political detention centre. "It is deeply troubling that Myo A

Today I realized that the company I was hired for in the summer is not my current employer, and my contract has ended and I haven't received anything. Who is paying me at the moment? A: A side effect of working freelance is that you are the employee of whoever hires you.

You are not an employee of the company you've been hired to work for. Your contract is to them, but you are not working for them. If you hadn't been hired by that company, you'd be your own employee. A: It's common, especially for freelancers to think they are employed by the company. However, the truth is that you are employed by the hiring company and anything that has to do with the job is to be completed by that company. You are not paid by the company that hired you. You should check your contracts to make sure that you are still being paid by your current company. It is possible that your new contract is not retroactive. a state habeas proceeding would be `particularly
